

INTDV to showcase five groundbreaking products in GITEX 2020

INTDV will unveil high-end technologies of the most promising key players in the Middle East

Sunday, 15 November 2020 – 12:00

INTDV, one of the Middle East's leading emerging tech companies, headquartered in Riyadh with offices operating in Dubai, Kuwait and Cairo, will showcase five innovative products in GITEX 2020, which will kick off on December 6. Held in the Dubai World Trade Centre, the event will be the first in-person global gathering of the premium tech firms in 2020.

The state-of-the-art products include Communico ChatBot, a conversational artificial intelligence plug-and-play solution allowing humans to interact with digital devices, as if they were communicating with a real person. Communico Robotics Content Management System (RCMS) software enables users to control the robot and its content, including but not limited to, the tablet content (text, voice, images, animations and videos), responses and movements. Meanwhile, Pepper, the world's first social humanoid robot, will be ready for the event to welcome and guide visitors in an innovative way. Adding to the plethora of new technologies and digital transformation projects, INTDV will bring two more tech revolutionary platforms, namely Digital Avatar and SMP Robotics, to its stand in GITEX.

“Every year, GITEX exhibits a huge number of digital solutions and avant-garde technologies provided by the world’s leading firms. We are pleased to participate in this year’s event through our five innovative products to drive digital transformation, hand in hand with the industry’s leading players, like Softbank Robotics,” said Mohammad Al Ajmi, the Chief Executive Officer of INTDV.

“INTDV has become a fast-paced technology powerhouse utilizing high-end technologies through integrating artificial intelligence, machine learning and automation. Inevitably, it will be an integral part of future most influential advances, creating a tangible lasting value for global tech events,” he added.
